

Bible Learning Center User's Guide

Table of contents

Getting Started	3
Registration	3
User Dashboard	3
Enroll in Course	4

Getting Started

The section describes how to get started using the Bible Learning Center.

Registration

First, you need to create an account by selecting Registration under User from the top menu, fill in the required information, and then click the Create Account button. It will automatically log you in and display the User Dashboard page.

Create an Account

Please create an account to get started

First Name

J.R.

Last Name

Jackson

Username

jrjackson

Email

jrjacksonar@outlook.com

Password

.....

Confirm Password

.....|

Create Account

User Dashboard

Each time you log in, the User Dashboard represents a summary of all your activity. Click on Settings in the sidebar menu to view or change your Profile Settings. Click the Security Settings to view and save your security settings

- Dashboard
- Courses
- Certificates
- Reviews
- Settings
- Logout

Hi, J.R. Jackson
Let's learn something new today

Overview

0
Enrolled Courses

0
Completed Courses

0
Certificates of Completion

Quiz Attempts

Quiz Info	Questions	Correct Answers	Incorrect Answers	Grades	Results
There aren't any results yet.

Profile Settings
Security Settings

Profile Picture

Change Image

File Requirements:
Format: JPG, PNG, GIF
Max. file size: 5 MB

Personal Information

First Name (will be used for certificate)

Last Name (will be used for certificate)

Email

Biographical Info

Enter your biographical info

Reset All

Save

- Dashboard
- Courses
- Certificates
- Reviews
- Settings
- Logout

Profile Settings
Security Settings

Change Password

Current Password

New Password

Confirm Password

Cancel

Save

Enroll in Course

Select Courses by Category from the Courses drop down menu. Click on the link for the desired course.

Courses by Category

Apologetics Press	–
Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator The Bible Is From God: Proofs of Inspiration
Truth for the World	+
Books	+
Bible Project	+

Click on the Enroll button.

Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator

By Curtis Jackson / May 18, 2026

In the book "Does God Exist?", available free from Apologeticspress.org, author Dave Miller and various contributors present a logical and evidentiary case for theism over atheism. The text argues that biblical faith is rooted in knowledge and rational inquiry rather than "blind faith," asserting that humans are naturally "intuitive theists" predisposed to recognize a creator. Through the Cosmological Argument, the authors explain that the universe is a massive effect requiring a supernatural, uncaused cause to account for its origin. Furthermore, the Moral Argument is utilized to suggest that the existence of objective right and wrong necessitates a higher moral lawgiver. By contrasting these views with the limitations of naturalism, the sources conclude that the available evidence leads to the God of the Bible. This course provides summaries of the major conclusions of the book.

Full Course

Free

Enroll

It will take you to the course. Click the Start Learning button or click the first lesson to begin taking the course. While taking the course, it contains links to the previous and next lessons. Some courses require you to Mark the Lesson complete before proceeding to the next lesson.

Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator

By Curtis Jackson / May 18, 2026

In the book "Does God Exist?", available free from Apologeticspress.org, author Dave Miller and various contributors present a logical and evidentiary case for theism over atheism. The text argues that biblical faith is rooted in knowledge and rational inquiry rather than "blind faith," asserting that humans are naturally "intuitive theists" predisposed to recognize a creator. Through the Cosmological Argument, the authors explain that the universe is a massive effect requiring a supernatural, uncaused cause to account for its origin. Furthermore, the Moral Argument is utilized to suggest that the existence of objective right and wrong necessitates a higher moral lawgiver. By contrasting these views with the limitations of naturalism, the sources conclude that the available evidence leads to the God of the Bible. This course provides summaries of the major conclusions of the book.

Course status: Not started

0/11

Start learning

Course Includes:

1 Enrolled Student

1 Section

11 Lessons

All levels

Average Rating

0

Based on (0) reviews

Course Content

Reviews

Announcements

Overview

What are the three main arguments for God's existence?

How does this source address the origin of science?

Click the Start learning button to start the first lesson

My courses / Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator / What are the three main arguments for God's existence?

What are the three main arguments for God's existence?

Lesson Content

Q&A

The source describes several "classical arguments" that have been used for centuries to provide a positive case for the existence of God. While the sources detail five specific philosophical arguments and one evidence-based argument centered on the Bible, the three most prominent "classical" philosophical arguments discussed are:

Other Arguments in the Sources

In addition to these three, the sources present the Intuition Argument, which suggests that mankind's inherent, universal predisposition toward "intuitive theism" and recognizing a Creator is evidence of that Creator. They also discuss the Aesthetic Argument, which posits that the existence of beauty and the human capacity to appreciate it points to a loving God who desires for His creation to experience joy.

Finally, the sources argue that the Bible itself is proof of God due to its supernatural accuracy in three specific areas: predictive prophecy (foretelling the fall of cities like Tyre and Babylon), scientific foreknowledge (accurate medical/sanitary practices written before their time), and overall factual accuracy.

← Previous Lesson

Mark as complete

Next Lesson →

Once you have completed reviewing the content click Mark as complete button which will take you to the next lesson. You also can post questions in the Q&A section for the instructor which will appear in the User Dashboard notifications and notify via email. The up arrow will take you to the top of the content.

My courses / Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator / How does this source address the origin of science?

How does this source address the origin of science?

Lesson Content Q&A

The sources address the origin of science by examining the foundation upon which it rests: the existence of a rational, orderly universe governed by universal laws. They argue that science itself would "crumble to dust" without the Principle of Causality and the existence of a Law-writer to establish physical constants.

The Foundation: The Law of Cause and Effect

The sources define the Law of Cause and Effect (or Causality) as the "ultimate canon of the sciences" and the "foundation of them all".

- Rationality in Science: Scientific investigation assumes that everything with a beginning has an adequate cause and that the same circumstances invariably produce the same effects.
- Requirement for Regularity: Without "regularity" in nature—the consistent relationship between cause and effect—there would be no such thing as a "scientific law".
- Scientific Progress: The National Academy of Sciences is quoted stating that progress in science consists of developing better explanations for the causes of natural phenomena.

Course status: In progress

1/12

Overview

- What are the three main arguments for God's existence? ☒
- How does this source address the origin of science? ☐
- How does this source define the Moral Argument for God? ☐
- How does atheism attempt to explain objective moral values? ☐
- How does predictive prophecy in the Bible prove God? ☐

How you to from lesson to lesson is keeps track of your course status progress on the right. On some lessons you can move to specific lessons using the course outline on the right. Other courses you will have to take the lessons in order. This course has a quiz at the end of the lesson. Click the Start button. It will take you through a series of questions. Answer the question and click Next.

DOES GOD EXIST? EXPLORING THE EVIDENCE FOR A CREATOR

Test your knowledge from this lesson.

Start

1 / 17

The Cosmological Argument is based on the Law of Cause and Effect (or Law of Causality), which states that every material effect must have an adequate antecedent or simultaneous cause.

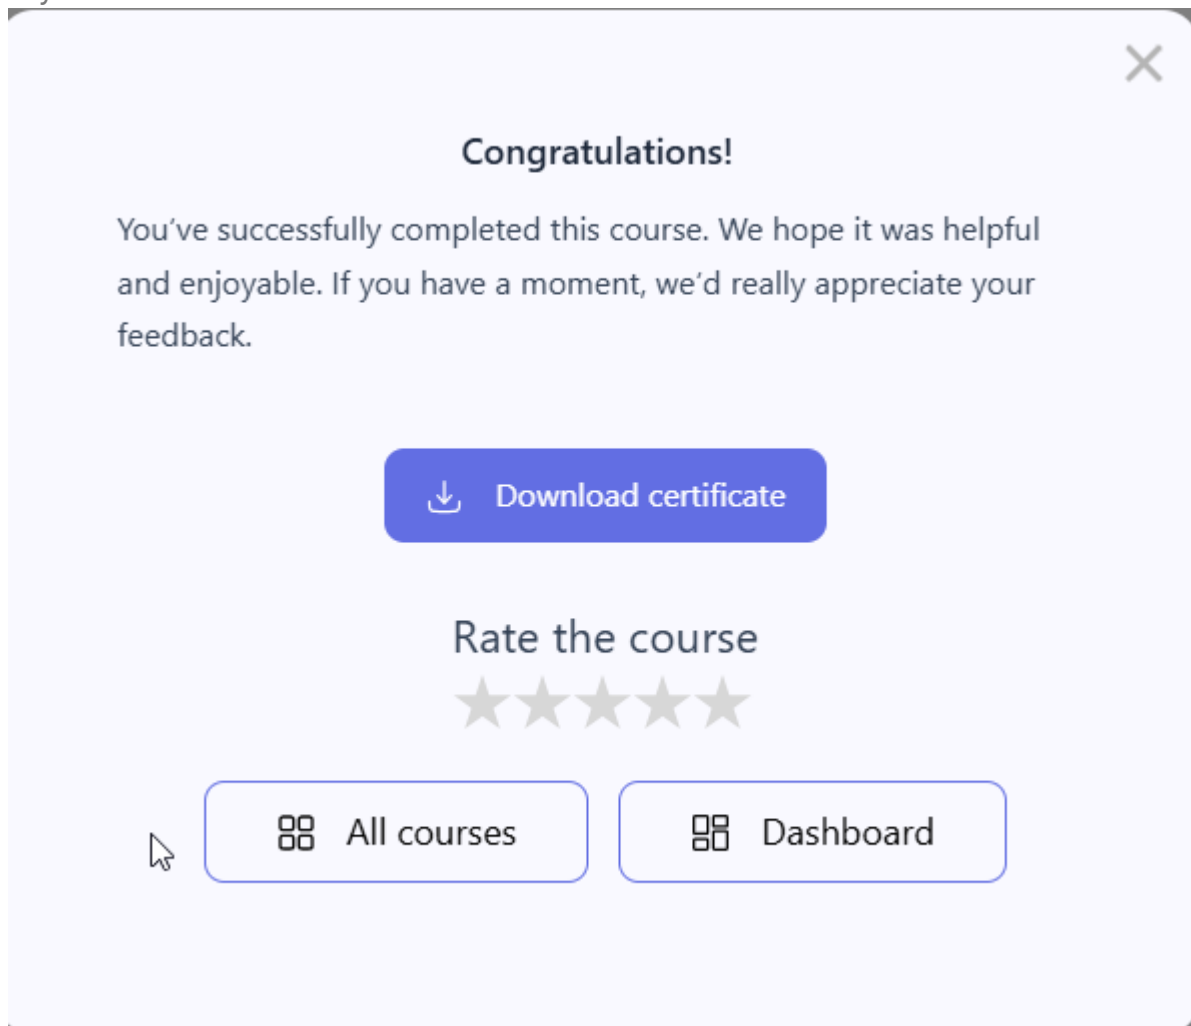

☒ True

☐ False

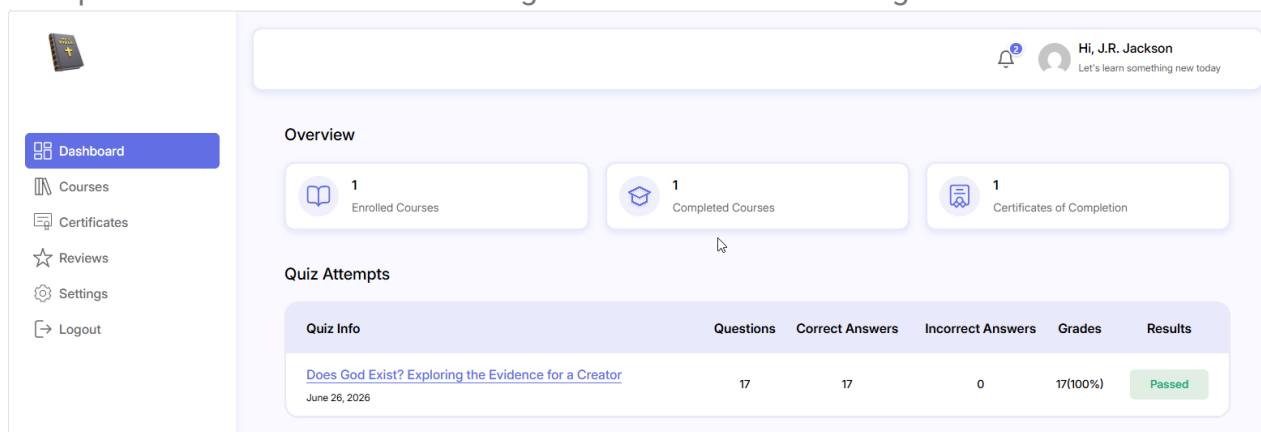

Next

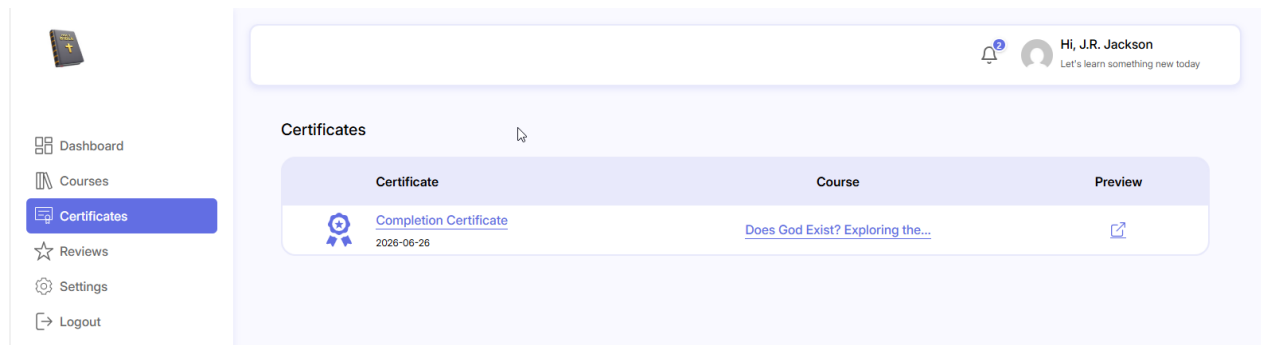

Once you complete the quiz it will show you the result and then display a popup congratulating you on passing the course your options.

Some courses provide a complete certification that you can download and will show up in your User Dashboard.

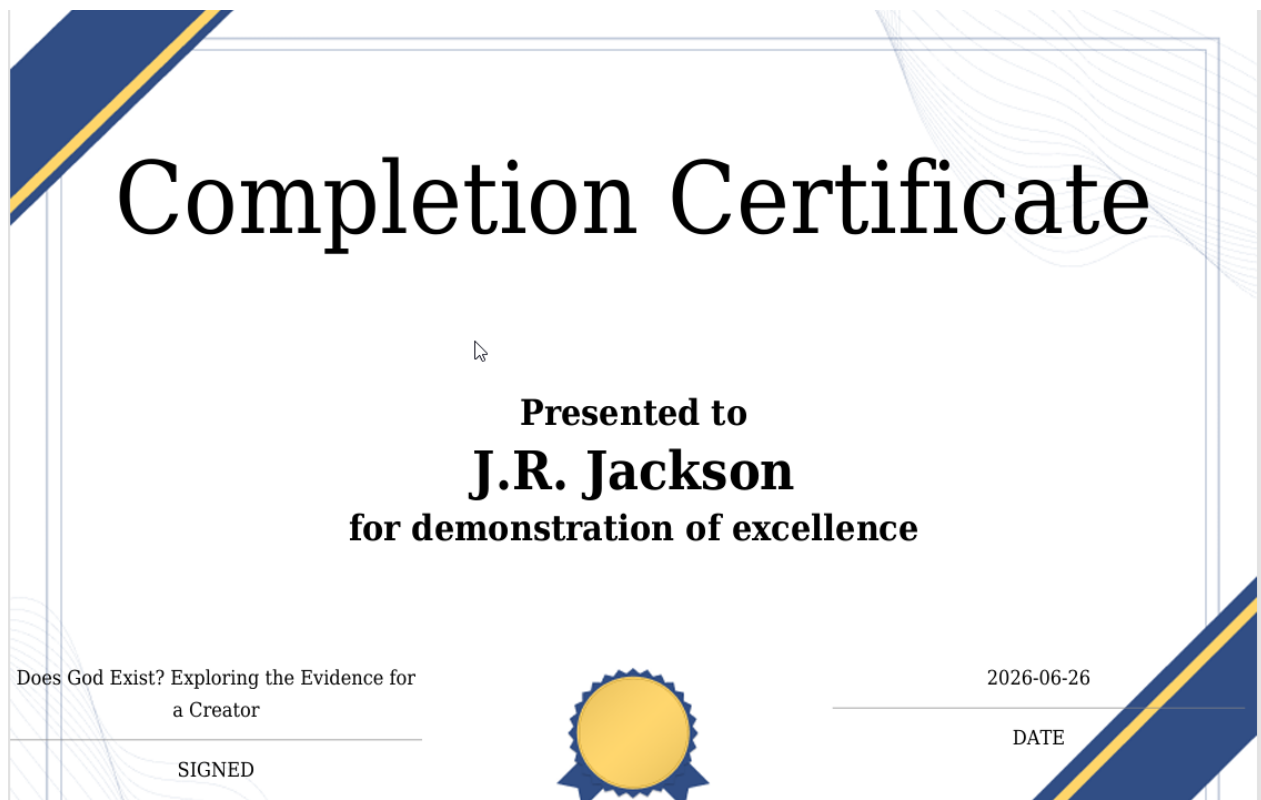

Your User Dashboard now reflects your completed courses, certificates of completion, and quiz results with the bell showing notifications of the changes.

Click on Completion Certificate download your certificate.

The User Dashboard Notification keeps track on your learning status. Once you read the notifications the bell will not show a count of unread messages.

Notifications

AllUnread

Your certificate for Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator is now available.

5 minutes ago

You have successfully enrolled in Does God Exist? Exploring the Evidence for a Creator.

32 minutes ago

Mark all as Read